Water supply, sanitation and drainage

Water supply, sanitation and drainage, including extraction, production and distribution of clean water, collection and treatment of wastewater. As far as possible these projects will be developed to include a renewable energy component. In addition, storm water systems and related flood protection will be considered.

Solid waste management

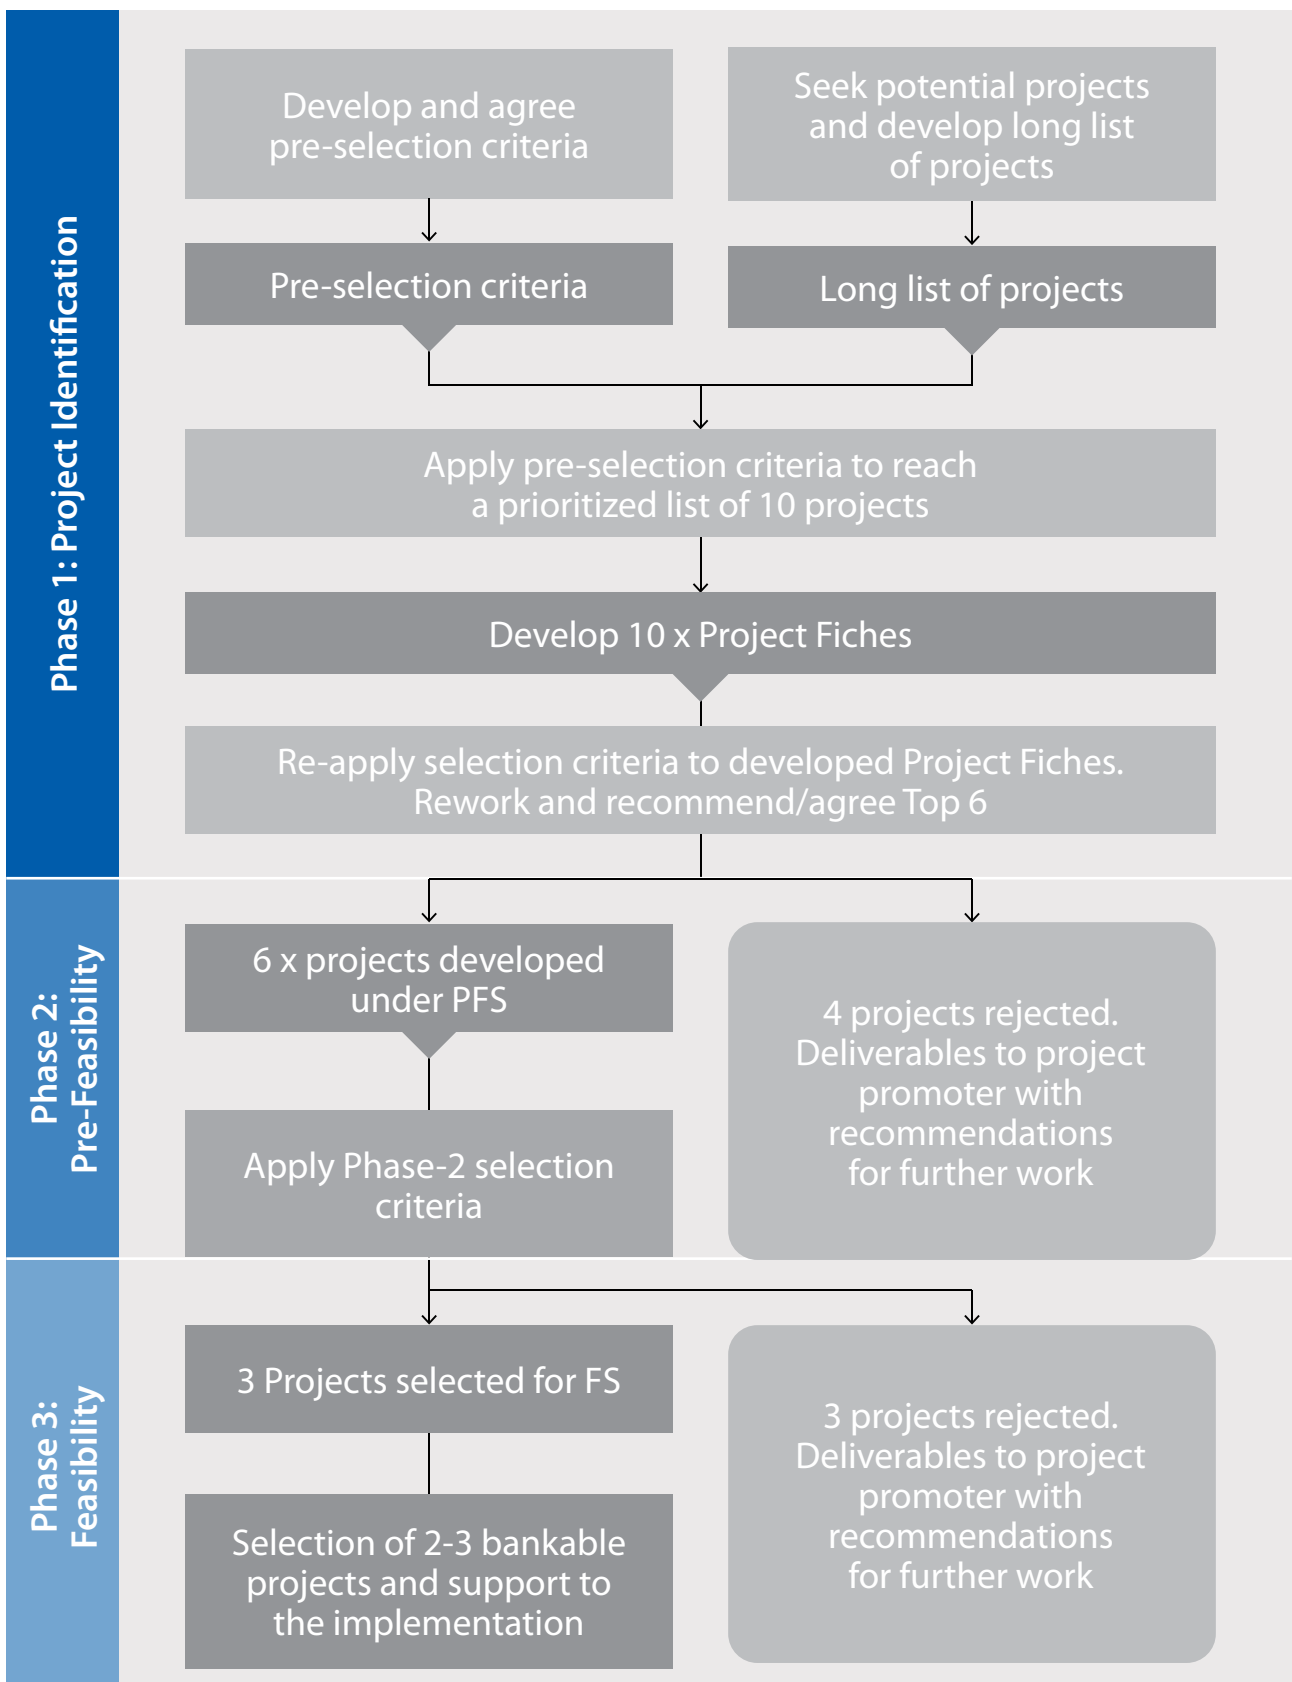

Solid waste management, including collection of recyclable materials, bio-waste and residual waste, sorting, refinement and recycling or recovery of plastics and other materials, composting or anaerobic digestion of bio-waste, sanitary landfill disposal of residual waste. Particular attention will be given to project components that contribute to the Clean Oceans Initiative.

Forestry

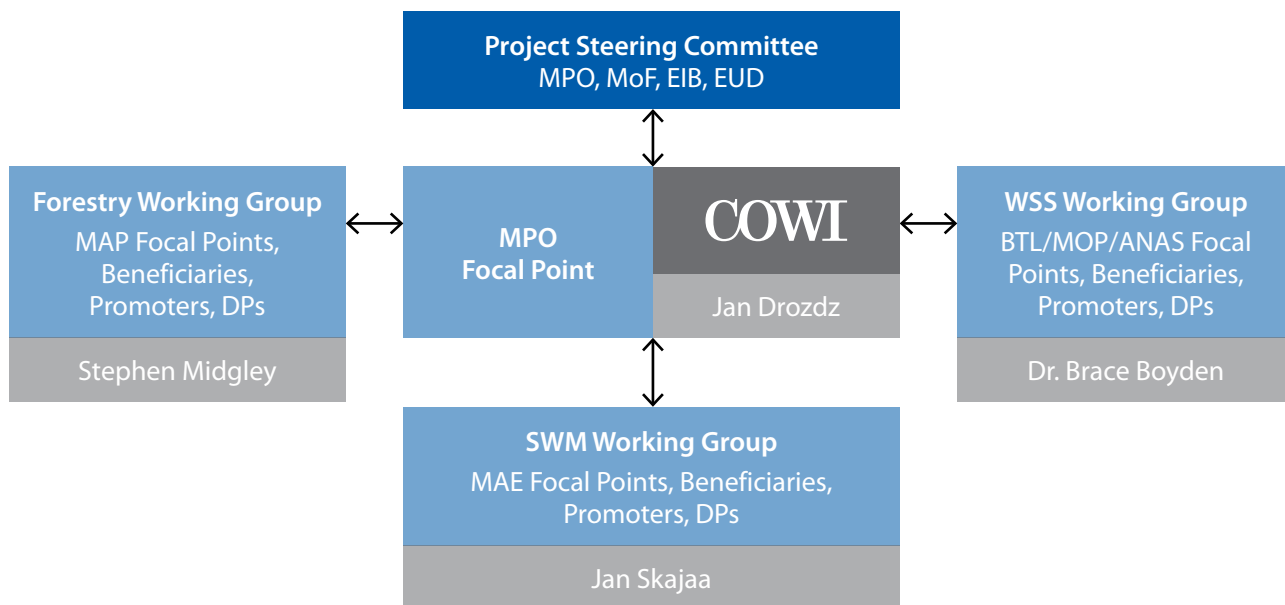

Forestry: sustainable forest management related investments such as: afforestation; reforestation; forest rehabilitation, protection, management and control; forest certification, biodiversity conservation, and management of (protected) catchment areas. Such investments are crucial to enhance resilience to climate variability and mitigate climate change and to contribute to sustainable economic development of Timor-Leste.
